

DE LA BARRA TO BECOME PRESIDENTMadero Decides to Resign Office.

STUBBORN FIGHT ENDS

Rebels at Mexico City Compel Existing Government to Yield.

Mexico City, Feb. 15.—The resignation of Francisco I. Madero from the presidency is believed to be in the hands of the Mexican congress. It was authoritatively stated that Madero agreed to resign if the senate so wished. The senate has been called into session for the purpose of taking action on this important phase of the situation.

At the British legation, where Senor de la Barra took refuge on Thursday, it is said that Madero's resignation had practically been arranged for and that de la Barra would likely succeed him in the presidency.

Later Senor de la Barra, while proceeding through the streets in an automobile, stopped and made a brief address, assuring the crowds that a peace settlement was certain. De la Barra had been in consultation with both Madero and Diaz regarding a quick settlement in order to avoid intervention.

Orders to Cease Firing. General Huerta, the federal commander, gave the order to cease firing. Soon detachments of federals were seen marching from their positions to the government base near the palace, their guns slung on their backs.

The laws of Mexico make it necessary for the resignation of the president to be submitted to the congress and for this reason official announcement of the resignation of Madero would be considerably delayed, even if already decided upon.

Another development was the resignation of Rafael Hernandez as minister of the interior. Whether hostilities will be resumed materially depends on the action of the president and congress, or upon the aggression of the rebels.

In case of dilatory tactics it is not impossible that Diaz may decide to force the action.

Diaz Insists on Resignation. He has said repeatedly that nothing short of the resignation of the president would satisfy him—that Madero must resign or he himself die fighting. Another exchange of notes took place between General Huerta and the rebel commander. That of Huerta was of conciliatory character. It offered Diaz permission to return in peace with his men.

Diaz replied that he would continue to fight. His army repulsed with great loss and after his failure to subjugate Diaz, with not half the number of men, Madero was subjected to the pleading of his closest friends, many going so far as to demand his resignation.

The government has not been whipped, nor have the rebels. Diaz is not attempting to whip the government at present, but merely to resist it and for six days he and his forces have done that, although the methods employed resulted in a ruthless bombardment of the capital by two heavy forces of artillery.

Many Feared Intervention.

The damage done was not as great as on previous days, but this was due merely to a change of tactics, and Mexicans high in public life, knowing that a continuation of hostilities might result in intervention, spared no efforts to bring about a settlement. To those watching the battle it was no surprise to hear the bugles sound the order for the federals to cease firing. The tired soldiers obeyed with alacrity, but the effect on the rebel lines of Huerta's order was different. The small fire increased in volume, as if the besieged were expressing defiance.

Ten minutes later all firing along the federal lines ceased, but that from the rebels continued, though in diminishing measure, a cannon now and then sending a shell, first to one side and then to the other, as if marking time.

Francisco De La Barra, formerly provisional president, who, in all probability will become president in succession to Madero, was accompanied to the arsenal and to the palace by the Spanish minister. He did not divulge the nature of his conversation, but expressed the hope that hostilities were closed.

CREATES RELIEF
AT WASHINGTONOfficials Pleased at Turn in Mexican Affairs.

ACTION CAUSES NO SURPRISE

Madero's Voluntary Relinquishment of the Presidency Clears Horizon of Storm Clouds, as Armed Intervention on the Part of the United States
Appeared to Be Inevitable.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The news of Francisco I. Madero's voluntary relinquishment of the presidency of Mexico brought relief to official circles in Washington in which the situation during the last five days had been hourly growing more tense.

The announcement, coming at a time when the tide of war had been steadily turning against President Madero, hardly was surprising. It served to clear the horizon instantly of the storm clouds which came nearer as the prospect of armed interference on the part of the United States seemed inevitable.

State department officials, since the opening of the fight in the Plaza before the Mexican national palace last Sunday, have eagerly waited night and day for official and unofficial advice from the scene of the conflict and the government was fully prepared to meet any situation which might arise.

As a result of the co-operation of the navy and war departments their combined forces already were ready for Mexican service. Coincident with the receipt of the news of Madero's abdication a wireless message was flashed to the navy department here announcing the arrival in the Pacific Mexican port of Mazatlan of the cruiser Colorado, the last of the six American warships to reach its destination off the shores of the revolution torn republic.

Five other warships are well on their way towards Mexican ports and Acting Secretary Winthrop said that in all probability they would continue to their destinations.

Not less prepared was the army. The entire first brigade of the First division, 3,000 strong, was under marching orders and awaiting the command of Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, to entrain from their respective stations in New York and proceed to Newport News, Va., where four army transports are fully equipped and provisioned, to set out for the Gulf of Mexico to augment the naval forces.

Some Warships May Remain.

It probably will be determined to leave at least one warship off the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, while the others may decide to return to their routine duties or perhaps be pressed into Central American service, where conditions which, it is feared, forecast a general uprising, have been almost lost sight of.

Secretary Knox was in consultation with Assistant Secretary Huntington Wilson and the state department staff immediately after the announcement from Mexico City and hurried dispatches were sent to Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson in the Mexican capital. It was said no definite instructions would be sent to Mr. Wilson until he had officially reported the abdication of President Madero. In the absence of a report department officials declined to comment upon the sudden and drastic turn in Mexican affairs.

President Taft, when the news reached Washington, was at dinner at the home of Secretary MacVeagh. He was notified of the development at once by White House attaches and soon afterward heard from the secretary of state. Though the president's comment was not made public it was stated that there might be a conference of cabinet officials later. It was not regarded as probable, however, that any of the plans promulgated by the government early in the week for protecting American interests in Mexico would be altered at this time.

Madero's resignation, it is felt generally by officials here, justifies the correctness of this government's attitude in adopting and following persistently a hands off policy in the solution of the Mexican situation and it also is the prevailing opinion that it will be expedient to continue a patrol of Mexican waters until conditions have settled considerably. Francisco de la Barra, who was Mexican ambassador here during the closing days of the old Diaz regime, was known to have been opposed to intervention by the United States in Mexican affairs.

Execution at Washington.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Samuel Rauen, the first man to be hanged in the District of Columbia during the administration of President Taft, went to his death here. He was convicted of murder. The president declined to interfere with carrying out of justice.

Ambassador Wilson Says His Utterances

Washington, Feb. 15.—The state department issued the following statement:

"Ambassador Wilson telegraphed to inquire whether anything can be done to restrain Mr. John Barrett's mischievous activity. He states that Mr. Barrett's utterances are being published in Mexico City and are producing a bad effect on the situation, which calls for anything rather than sentimentality and amateur politics. The ambassador adds that the American colony at Mexico City resents Mr. Barrett's utterances and protests against them."

MAY PASS MEASURE
OVER TAFT'S VETOPresident Disapproves Immigration Bill.

Washington, Feb. 15.—President Taft vetoed the Dillingham-Burnett immigration bill, which would revolutionize the immigration policy of the United States by imposing a literacy test upon all foreigners seeking a home in America.

In a short message to the senate in his own handwriting the president announced his disapproval of the measure solely because of the provision which would lock the doors of the United States against the alien who could not read some language or dialect.

The veto message was accompanied by a letter to the president from Secretary Nagel denouncing the literacy test as a radical provision, "based upon a fallacy in undertaking to apply a test which is not calculated to reach the truth and to find a relief from a danger which really does not exist."

The president adopted the secretary's position. Senate and house leaders lost no time in arranging for an effort to override the veto. As soon as the message was read Senators Dillingham and Simmons and Representative Burnett, leading the congressional supporters of the measure, made arrangements to take it up in the senate on Monday and in the house on Tuesday. With Senator Lodge they were confident that the bill would be passed easily in both houses by the necessary two-thirds vote.

Theater Party.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 15.—General Rosalie Jones is awaiting an answer from President Elect Wilson to a formal request which she made for an audience with him on the arrival of her marching army of suffragettes at the national capital on March 1, or shortly afterward.

The army joined with local suffrage advocates in a demonstration in favor of the proposed woman's suffrage amendment to the constitution of New Jersey. The measure comes up for hearing before the legislature next week and the women attended a theater performance as the guests of the Trenton Civic and Suffrage clubs at which fifteen minutes between each act was allowed them to make speeches in favor of the measure.

QUIETER IN WEST VIRGINIA

Military Court Will Convene Next Monday.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 15.—There were no important developments in the coal strike situation. The military court will not convene until Monday next to hear cases of violation of martial law, of which there are more than 150.

Militia guarded the state buildings here. Strike conditions have quieted. Additional companies of militia reached the troubled districts of Paint and Cabin Creek and, for the present, further outbreaks are believed improbable.

PARCEL POST IS PROVED SUCCESSService Not Perfect Yet, but Very Useful.

MANY WISH CREDIT FOR IT.

P. V. DeGraw, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, One of Earliest Pioneers of Propaganda—Charles D. Hill, Secretary to President, Is Man of Many Duties.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Though the new parcel post law is not yet in complete working order and will need some amendments to make it meet various conditions, it has already demonstrated that it is a very useful addition to the postal service. Like the postal savings bank, it was hard to obtain, but since it has been put in force there are many persons who are willing to have the credit for its adoption.

Parcel Post Pioneer.

One of the pioneers in the parcel post propaganda was P. V. DeGraw, fourth assistant postmaster general. As far back as 1904 he began recommending that a low rate of postage be fixed on merchandise weighing not less than five pounds and transported over rural free delivery routes.

DeGraw is known as the rural free delivery man, for he has had charge of that work in the past eight years he has held his present position.

In all that time he contended for a parcel post system on rural routes. When the system was finally established, however, congress thought it wise to extend it to all mail routes, with the result that we now have a real parcel post law.

Man of Many Duties.

Charles D. Hill is a man of many duties. He has been an assistant secretary of the treasury, then secretary to the president, then chairman of the national committee, then back as secretary to the president. And in these days if men go to see the secretary on any fine afternoon they are told that he is "out playing golf with the president."

Hill is occupied all the time. And it illustrates another fact—the president likes only certain persons. He always plays golf with the same men, generally officials with whom he is closely associated. There are a dozen different golf players who would like to "take on" the president for a game, but he prefers the same men day after day.

"Lame Ducks" Lose.

If it is a fact, as charged, that the bill for a government exhibit at the San Francisco exposition with seven commissioners at $7,500 a year each was for the purpose of giving "lame ducks" a chance for good jobs after they retire from congress then the "lame ducks" seem destined to lose. It is to be doubted very much whether congress will pass any such bill.

The Democrats fear that the places will mostly go to Republicans if Mr. Taft is given an opportunity to make the appointments. And it seems to be determined that no more offices are to go to Republicans if the Democrats can prevent it.

Stock Exhibits.

Just how it may strike other visitors to expositions I cannot say, but the dullness of any exposition to my mind is the so called "government exhibit," consisting of a lot of stuff from the various government departments. It was charged on the floor of the house that these exhibits are kept in stock in different departments ready to ship to any exposition.

Soft jobs of a grafting nature have been enjoyed by government officials who have been sent in charge of the various exhibits. Minority Leader Mann in denouncing the government exhibits said that their location in an exposition was so deserted that it was good only for a tramping place.

"Has the gentleman tried it?" Mr. Taft asked Congressmen Bates of Pennsylvania, who thus saved what was becoming a serious situation in the debate.

Members Disappointed. "How's this?" asked an excited member of congress, addressing Joe Slinott, the efficient doorkeeper, "four years ago we had many more tickets for the stands to see the inaugural ceremonies than we get this year. What's happened?"

"Four years ago," explained Joe, "Clerk McDowell obtained an appropriation of $6,000 for building a stand for the use of the members of the house. South Trimble, the present clerk, tried to get a similar appropriation this year, but was refused, so there are not as many tickets."

And it was a Democrat who had run counter to this stroke of Democratic economy, and he could not say anything.

The Democratic Lookout.

The Republican minority leader is not the only man on watch all the time the house is in session. "I am there all the time they are in session," remarked John Garner of Texas. He is the whip of the majority. "They all know it," he continued, "so when I want to get something through they generally let me have it, for they know that I will be on hand when they want something."

The Explanation.

"How did the thieves get away with that roll of carpet?" "I suppose they beat it,"—Baltimore American.

Lord Curzon Says $150,000 Is Needed
Before Memorial.

London, Feb. 15.—Lord Curzon of Kedleston, in a letter regarding the various funds started in connection with the Scott disaster, says that before the question of providing a memorial is considered nearly $150,000 will be needed to meet the outstanding liabilities incurred by the expedition and to relieve the estate of Captain Scott, who pledged a large portion of his own and Mrs. Scott's fortune to the expenses of the venture. It will be necessary also to provide for the adequate publication of the scientific results so laboriously collected and tabulated by Captain Scott up to almost the last hour of his life.

ROADS OFFER NEW ARBITRATION PLANSuggest Mediation Board of Six Members.

New York, Feb. 15.—A new possibility of peace between the fifty-four Eastern railroads and their 34,000 firemen, who have threatened to strike for higher wages and revised working conditions, appeared with a fresh arbitration proposal by the railroads. The break that seemed imminent was averted, temporarily at least.

The railroads have insisted upon arbitration by a board of seven men, similar to that which decided the dispute with the engineers last year. The firemen demanded arbitration under the Erdman act. The roads now propose arbitration by a board of six members, two representatives of the roads, two of the firemen and two disinterested members to be appointed as the Erdman act provides. The roads offer also to retain in the arbitration proceedings all other features of the Erdman act which the firemen may desire.

The railroads' proposition, given out by the conference committee of managers, was immediately submitted to the federal government officials who have been trying to bring the parties together and at once placed by the mediators before the representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Many West Virginia Legislators Summoned to Testify.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 15.—Members of the West Virginia legislature, except those against whom indictments have been returned, together with many other persons, have been summoned to appear before the special grand jury in the Kanawha county intermediate court and tell what they know about the alleged purchase of votes for United States senator and moneys alleged to have been spent for the passage or defeat of legislation.

Six members of the legislature were indicted, seven indictments in all being returned.

Heat From Cold Water.

Heat from cold water seems fabulous, but it is an established fact. The water is decomposed by electricity into its constituent gases, hydrogen and oxygen. When these gases are reunited the act of combination causes the evolution of intense heat. The well known limelight is an example of this.

SCHOOL OF MINES BURNS

Costly Blaze at the University of Minnesota.

Minneapolis, Feb. 15.—The building of the school of mines, University of Minnesota, was almost totally destroyed by fire. The loss will be about $97,000, of which $66,000 is covered by insurance.

The cause of the fire is believed to have been wiring between the first and second floors. Eighteen Minneapolis fire companies answered the call before the blaze was well under control. The smelting building was saved by a narrow margin.

London, Feb. 15.—An uncensored Constantinople dispatch to the Chronicle reports that the Bulair line of fortifications was captured by the allies Tuesday.

The Turkish fleet, operating from the Dardanelles, was assisting to repel the Bulgarian attack. The Bulgarians feigned a sudden retreat and were followed by the Turks. The Turkish warships, not realizing the situation, continued their bombardment and inflicted heavy losses on their own men.

The Greek fleet in the Gulf of Saros supported the Bulgarians, who resumed and drove home their attack, and thereby captured the forts.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 15.—Without the formality of a roll call and by practically unanimous votes Democrats in state convention here chose their candidates for offices to be filled at the spring election. The ticket nominated includes:

Justices of the supreme court, George L. Yapple, Mendon, and Rollin H. Person, Lansing; regents of the university, Frank H. Begele, Marquette, and W. A. Comstock, Alpena; superintendent of public instruction, John M. Munson, Harbor Springs.

The platform adopted favors the enactment of an efficient primary law, the initiative and referendum, and the recall of executive, legislative and administrative officials.

DEFEATS WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Minnesota Senate Adversely Disposes of Measure.

St. Paul, Feb. 15.—Turning suddenly and unexpectedly, at a time when eight members were absent from their seats, the senate killed woman's suffrage, so far as the present session of the legislature is concerned. With votes to spare a resolution was adopted condemning to death the bill which passed the house a few days ago.

County option lost in the house by a tie vote of 59 to 59. If two of the members, who were absent on account of illness, had been in the house the vote would have been 61 against 59. Albert Pfander of New Ulm and W. H. Westcott of West St. Paul, the absentees, are both opposed to county option.

New York, Feb. 15.—Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, was a guest of honor and speaker at a banquet of the Sussex County society. The society is composed of persons who formerly lived in Sussex county, New Jersey.

President Elect Wilson attended the banquet of the society last year and General Castro in his speech said he was honored to be sitting at the same board at which the president elect had sat.

The general said it was unfortunate that he was regarded by some persons as an enemy of the United States, he always had been his friend. He wished the country and its people prosperity, he said.

Guilty of Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade.

IMPRISONMENT MAY RESULT

Act as Charged Is a Misdemeanor and the Penalty Provides Confinement for One Year, or a Fine of $5,000, or Both—First Criminal Trial Resulted in a Disagreement.

Detroit, Feb. 15.—The so called bathtub trust was found guilty of criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade by a jury in United States district court. The act as charged is a misdemeanor and the penalty provides imprisonment not exceeding one year, or a fine of $5,000, or both.

Last November the so called trust was dissolved by the supreme court in a civil suit instituted at Baltimore. The criminal case was a retrial, the first trial having resulted in a disagreement.

It was the second anti-trust case decided in favor of the government in the local court within the last week, the other case being against the "boot and shoe last trust."

The jury required four hours to reach a verdict.

When action was first brought against the defendants the federal grand jury returned two indictments against them, charging that by criminal conspiracy they controlled 83 per cent of the annual output of enameled ware; by patent license agreements combined to restrain trade in manufacturers' and jobbers' plumbing supplies; refused to sell the jobbers who handled goods for the so called independents and attempted to make uniform prices throughout the country.

The conspiracy charge, which comes under section 1 of the Sherman law, was the one on which the defendants were tried.

The government contended that in April, 1910, at a meeting at Mount Clemens, Mich., the defendants put into effect a conspiracy which they had formed which resulted in the making of the unlawful patent license agreements.

Edwin P. Grosvenor appeared for the government, assisted by District Attorney Clyde Webster and former District Attorney Frank Watson. Special Agent Joseph R. Darlington secured the evidence for the government.

The elopement caused much speculation at the time, as it was said the authorities hitherto had not had to deal with a similar case.

The cadet benedict was appointed from Montana and entered the academy in March, 1910.

Contests Title to Lands.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 15.—Suit has been filed in United States district court by the government contesting title to lands held by the Midwest Oil company. Contestants claim the patents were fraudulently obtained by filings made on land temporarily withdrawn from entry Sept. 27, 1909, and later made permanent by act of congress. The lands involved are estimated to be worth $250,000 and are rich oil producing tracts.

FRENCHMAN CONVICTED BY TOOTH MARKS ON BUTTER.

After Raid on Former Employer's House Burglar Meets Downfall.

Improving on the finger print method of detecting crime, the Paris police have obtained proof of a burglar's identity from the tooth marks which he left in a pat of butter.

Pierre Bessaud, the alleged burglar, broke into his former employer's premises at Montreuil-sous-Bois, hoping to find jewelry and money. Falling in this, he went to the kitchen and had a feast. Then he rode away on a stolen bicycle. When arrested he denied everything, but the police found the marks of eighteen of his teeth, including one which was broken, exactly reproduced in a lump of butter, into which he had probably bitten by mistake in the dark.

He still protested his innocence, asserting that he did not like butter, but when the magistrate sent for some butter and made the prisoner bite into it the imprint left by his irregular teeth was found to be identical with the impression made in the larder at Montreuil.

Mr. Gellisher's son, who is also an operator, first thought of this plan whereby his father has been able to keep track of the news of the day. Gellisher says that he is able to read with ease the code messages sent to his brain through the nerve tappings.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editors of The Dispatch:
It was my privilege to attend the exercises at one of our public schools in honor of the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln. During the exercises a message to the children from our superintendent of schools, W. C. Cobb, was read and I understand the same message was read at each of our schools.

It was an address on the subject of the day, scholarly in form yet suited to the understanding of the children. It emphasized particularly the great influence which the mothers of Lincoln and Washington had each exercised in the early training of their sons thus preparing them in character for their future work.

I cannot but wish that each mother in Brainerd could have been present and heard the address. A purely intellectual training for a child may be worse than useless and I cannot but congratulate our community upon their superintendent of schools who so wisely takes advantage of the opportunity the state provides to encourage the teaching to our children of lessons of virtue and patriotism, and gratitude for the same as shown forth in the lives of our beloved heroes.

ANOTHER MINE AT BARROWS

Many Land Sales Recorded—Work of Brainerd-Cuyuna Mining Co. at South 6th Street

Aroused by the spectre of the Borge-Frankson tonnage tax bill which even two defeats did not keep in its grave, the Cuyuna range has sent to the legislature representatives from every commercial club to fight the bill and to stay on the ground continuously until the measure is voted down and out. Subscriptions have been raised about the various towns to pay the expenses of the delegates. The Brainerd Commercial club sent Attorney A. D. Polk and Alderman James A. Elder. The Crosby Commercial club sent W. G. Young and E. G. Ingalls. They also represented Ironton. The Cuyuna Commercial club sent R. W. Wedgewood, cashier of the First State bank of Cuyuna. The Deerwood Commercial club sent a former Duluthian, Judge J. T. Hale, now mayor of Deerwood. These delegates organized at the capitol and adopted a plan of campaign. They were also aided by individuals at different times, including George D. LaBar, R. R. Wise, Carl Zapfe, M. T. Dunn, W. H. Gemmell, L. M. Dupue and J. P. Ernster of Brainerd, John H. Hill of Ironton, Frank Buchanan of Cuyuna, E. A. Lamb, H. J. Ernster, County Commissioner John A. Oberg, Frank Oberg, Charles G. Osterlund of Deerwood, and others. At Brainerd Judge C. A. The Cuyuna range is aroused as never before in its entire history and will keep up the fight until the final roll call. The delegation will stay on the job until the bill is killed.

At the Barrows mine of the Virginia Ore Mining company the installation of the 3,000 gallon pump is about completed. The force of miners is to be increased soon. The opening of another mine in the spring is being talked of.

At the Adams mine near Oreland and southwest of Deerwood, also situated on the south range, considerable sinking and cross cutting is to be done, the contract having been let for the work. It is anticipated that the Adams mine will be shipper this year, although its tonnage may not be very large the first year. A water tank is being built there.

The Rogers-Brown Ore Co. is hoisting between 1200 to 1500 tons of ore daily from its Armour No. 1 and No. 2 shafts near Crosby and about 700 tons from the Kennedy mine at Cuyuna.

Good progress is being made in sinking at the Cuyuna-Duluth mine at the north end of Ironton.

Additional development work is being carried on at the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine to the north of Ironton and Crosby.

It is reported that the Soo may build a short extension to the south range from Deerwood and may also build north from its present terminus at the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine, giving tracage to the Iron Mountain Mining company mine and properties of Franklin W. Merritt and the Gorham-Garrett people of Minneapolis, touching the vicinity of Cuyuna and bridging the narrows of Rabbit lake. Brainerd hopes that ultimately the Soo will extend to its city.

Draw Any Wagon.

At a drawing recitation Tommy was called on to sketch a horse drawing a wagon. He walked slowly to the blackboard, and while the entire class was watching his artistic movements he sketched a horse.

As he turned back to his seat the master sang out, "Tommy, have you done what I told you to?"

"Sir," said Tommy recklessly, "is anything the matter with the horse?"

"No," said the master coolly, "nothing seems to be the matter with the horse. Now draw the wagon."

"Let the horse draw the wagon. I am no burden bearer," was the immediate reply.—National Monthly.

GIVES IMPETUS TO BUSINESS

Cuyuna Range, Says Howard Elliott, to Give Northern Pacific Much Business

LARGE YARDS AT CARLTON

New Ore Docks at Superior to be Finished According to Contract by June or July

President Howard Elliott, of the Northern Pacific railway, the guest of honor at a banquet given by the Duluth Commercial club Friday night, was interviewed by the Duluth Herald and gave out some important information on railway matters.

"One of the great pieces of work which we will undertake this spring," said President Elliott, "will be the enlargement of the track facilities in the proposed storage yard at Carlton.

"Our work there this year will be only a beginning. Ultimately the additions to the trackage there will give extensive employment to residents of Carlton. The yards there are made necessary by reason of the fact that business in general is growing tremendously aside from the additional business that is coming in during the present year from the Cuyuna range.

"The ore situation as regards our road is very bright. We are now having a slip dredged for the new ore docks which we will construct in Superior this year, and which, according to the contract, must be finished by June or July. The dock will contain 102 pockets of large size—the usual ore dock has. Shipping by both our road and by the Soo from the Cuyuna will be large this year.

"As to business in general, it was good last year and gives promise of being better this year. Both east and westbound business last year showed increases, but the eastbound business was the greater, and we could stand more business headed west. It was a trifle unbalanced."

NEW YORK FROWNS ON LOW-NECKS!

School Girls of Smart Set Eschew Frills and Seek Simplicity in Dress

There is a wave of tacit opposition to low-neck gowns for girls sweeping through the fashionable boarding schools of New York, says Nancy Norton, arbitress of feminine fashion in the current issue of "Good Dressing." A young girl in a New York boarding school, she writes to her friends at home, dwelling at length upon the almost studied simplicity in the fashionable frocks of the season. Most of them are round necked, with some cut in a tiny point or square neck, but the girls who come to school with low-neck dresses from home "scramble around for tuckers and things in a hurry," when they discover that they are out of place among the girls whose taste they respect.

This letter is one of many features of the first issue of "Good Dressing," the new fashion magazine which is to be issued monthly for the women of Brainerd by "Michael's".

Another feature is the selection of the three Easter gowns which he likes best, by William Faversham, the matinee idol. Mr. Faversham says he doesn't know anything about style, but he knows what he likes. Particularly, he likes to see long sleeves worn on the street, in order to hide "those bony elbows."

Another stage celebrity, Miss Julia Marlowe, also has something to say. She picks out the Easter bridal dress that she thinks most stunning. It is of ivory-white satin, but the dignified simple lines which Miss Marlowe favors can be produced in other materials. Above all, says she, don't overlook the orange blossoms, for "a bride without orange blossoms, is only three-fourths a bride."

"Good Dressing," in which "Michael's" take much pride as the personal organ of the store, and as an authoritative style guide for the women of Brainerd is filled with the latest fashion news of Paris, New York and other style centers. It shows in great profusion the new French designs, American fashions adapted from the French, and American styles. For each design "Michael's" have in stock patterns from which the garment may readily be made up at home at low cost.

"Good Dressing," which is an attractive magazine of 32 pages, with a cover in two colors by Harrison Fisher, also contains numerous departments covering all the phases of dress. These are, for example, style charts, a unique idea. One shows what colors harmonize and what colors clash. The other tells just what hat, what dress, what gloves, what shoes, what jewelry, to wear on any occasion. Experts write on how to fix the hair, how to make over hats, what the new dress materials are. There is also a brilliant letter from Paris.

The publication is edited by the editors of The Ladies' Home Journal, the well-known woman's publication. Its complimentary distribution to the women of Brainerd is made possible by an arrangement which "Michael's" have concluded with 3,000 other leading merchants in all parts of the country whereby the magazine is issued cooperatively. Each merchant, however, has a small part of the paper specially printed to bear announcements of his own store, thus making it the private organ of that store.

Hereafter "Good Dressing" will be ready for distribution to regular customers and other Brainerd women on the 5th day of each month and the first number is now ready for distribution.—Advt.

TRANSMUTING OF METALS CLAIMED

London Scientists Assert Big Discovery.

PRODUCE NEON AND HELIUM.

Read Papers Showing How Elements Have Been Changed or Else Matter Has Been Produced From Energy. Chemists Greet Revelation With Deep Wonderment.

At a meeting of the London Chemical society recently papers were read by Sir William Ramsay and Professors Norman Collie and H. Patterson, which assert that the authors have done one of two things. They have achieved clearly and definitely the transmutation of elements or they have evolved matter from energy.

At the outset of his paper Sir William referred to "the mild incredulity with which some years ago the scientific world received the announcement that he and Cameron had obtained lithium from copper." He then described further the experiments which resulted in the discovery. In gold X ray bulbs he had discovered helium. The joint paper of Messrs. Collie and Patterson dealt with the discovery of the presence of neon in hydrogen after the passage of an electric discharge through hydrogen at low pressure. Their experiments carried Sir William Ramsay's work to the further point that both neon and helium had been produced from substances in which they were previously not known to be present.

Various Possibilities.
There were various possibilities. It might be that the elements of the tube in electrolysis gave neon or helium under the influence of the discharge. This gave ten or a dozen elements to choose from as the source.

Again, there was a chance that hydrogen was the source, or it was possible that they were dealing with a primordial form of matter, the primordial atoms of which, when produced, had all the energy necessary for forming a world by the combination of these atoms.

Atoms of elements which will be found in helium and possibly in hydrogen were present in a nebular state, and they were present in the experimental tube. Possibly the electric current directed the flow of these atoms with the full force of its energy and, with the phenomena of heat and light, the elements came into existence. At any rate, one thing seemed certain—elements could be changed, and they could be changed in a way very different from the way that radium was changed. In its case the process could neither be hastened nor retarded, but the present phenomenon was artificial, and a further progress was occurring at the other end of the system of atom producing elements of low atomic weight.

Old Ideas Corrected.
The old idea of the transmutation of elements had to be altered. We are coming now to know more of subatomic matter, and it had to be realized that the old order changed, yielding place to the new.
Professor Arthur Smithells began the discussion which followed the reading of the papers by saying that he was breathless at the announcements made. It required courage for scientific workers to bring forward such results. The obvious criticism was that in the experiment enormous weight was necessarily laid on the spectroscopic evidence, and his experience had taught him caution in this respect. He felt sure, however, that others were too experienced to fall into the pitfalls. He expressed his great gratification that other researchers had taken up the investigation.
In the hottest and most recently formed stars hydrogen, helium and possibly one or two other elements not known on the earth make their appearance, all of them being of light atomic weight. As the stars cool down the atoms become heavier, or, in other words, you get synthesis of atoms. There is some process at work building up the atom that till now has never been realized experimentally, but in the experiments witnessed recently we were apparently assisting at the birth of the atom.

Advances showing a strong desire on the part of the Spanish government to attract back to Spain the Sephardic Jews of Turkey, whose ancestors were driven out of Spain centuries ago, are described in the American Hebrew's account of a recent visit of the Marquis de Nantouillet, the Spanish minister of Constantinople, to the Chief Rabbi Nahoum.

The Spanish minister expressed to the chief rabbi his regret that M. Nahoum had not invoked the protection of the Spanish government for the 70,000 Judios Espanoles at Saloniki, as well as that of the British and French ambassadors. The marquis added that if the Jews had suffered through the liquidation it should not be forgotten that Spain, too, had suffered heavily from the consequences of the acts committed centuries ago. Official Spain as well as the people, he said, were anxious to repair the great crime of their ancestors, which they felt was the blackest in their history.

The chief rabbi replied that he was deeply touched by the action of the minister and that the fresh advances made by him could not fail to produce an excellent impression on the Jews of the east.

In an interview which the Spanish minister gave to the correspondent for a Jewish paper he stated that in the event of Saloniki being detached from Turkey his government would regard very favorably the return en bloc of all the Jews in that city who were of Spanish descent. The Spanish government, he stated, was willing to open at its expense Jewish schools in Saloniki or the hinterland, where instruction would be given in Spanish.

BOY SIX FOOTER AT THIRTEEN

Lad Outgrows One Suit After Another. Weighs Two Hundred Pounds.

Somerset county, Pa., has a thirteen-year-old boy six feet six inches tall and still growing. For two years he has been wearing long trousers, and his fond parents are puzzled what to do with him, because he outgrows his clothes before he outgrows them.
He is well developed and strong and weighs in the neighborhood of 200 pounds. Although normal at birth and when a child, within the past two years he began to sprout up to an enormous height, and a special bed was constructed before he could obtain rest.

WANTS HORSE SENT BY POST.

Colored Man Applies at Postoffice For Animal He Had Ordered.

While Postmaster Creed of Hermitage, Ark., was having one of his busiest hours at the office, a long, lanky, "keen headed" negro appeared before the delivery window. An anxious expression mantled his face.
"Boss," he queried, "Ah sent $29 foh uh hawse. Has yo' got 'im?"
"No; this is no livery stable," replied the postmaster.
"Ah knows dat, boss, but ahn' he hrah? He's s'pose to come by de parcel post, sah."
"No; I haven't seen your horse," said the postmaster, "but if one of the boys should happen to shake him out of a mail bag, I'll tie him up in here and let you know."
And the negro went away shaking his head doubtfully, his confidence in the parcel post sadly shaken.
